

« Design Team has collaborated with Prospero Bailey from The Bailey's African History Archives (the custodians of DRUM magazine's archives) to create the BAHHA collection. Inspired by Dolly Radebe, Steve Biko and other legendary South African icons of the 1950s, the collection rediscovers the magic of these images in a deservedly dignified, contemporary style.

Local style

Amanda Haupt and Lise Butler, the dynamic Design Team duo, pride themselves on their ability to design and print in-house, creating trendsetting fabrics with a bold contemporary flavour.

'For us the recipe for successful fabric design is strong iconography, simple repeats and good solid use of colour. Having a story linked to the fabric makes it so much more precious.'

THIS PAGE The main open-plan living area was planned to suit the family's informal lifestyle. Kitchen units designed by Green Monkey Design. The mahogany dining table is from Classic Revivals and the dining chairs were made up by Petit Upholsterers. The white and chrome chairs are from Trading Spaces. A massive antique Chinese cupboard from Trade Roots, Tiffany-style stained-glass light-fitting imported by One on One and an artwork by Hannelle Kotze complete the eclectic space.

The Fabric House

For that magic fabric find, visit The Fabric House, a little hotspot in Sandton's Kramerville specialising in end-of-range local and imported fabrics at incredibly favourable prices. 'Our affordable selection of gourmet fabrics allows an inexpensive way of changing the scheme of any room,' reveals owner Heather Lund-Truter.
